STIKLESTAD – JULY 2013

We had bought tickets to the play The Saint Olav Drama at Stiklestad.

We had decided that we would drive by car back and forth.

First day we just drove to Røros. There we had booked a room at Vertshuset Røros

We had expected to eat dinner at the hotel, but the restaurant was fully booked. So we went down to Røros Hotel. They had a decent buffet.

View from our room at Vertshuset Røros.

On Stiklestad we had ordered cabin at Stiklestad Camping. This is an aerial photo of the site, taken from the website of the campsite.

Our cabin is located on the top.

Here is the car parked outside the cottage.

It was a great and nice cabin.

Anne Berit sitting out on the terrace.

We went for a walk down to Verdalselva that goes right beyond.

The riverside.

A road runs along the river.

Various links to Slaget ved Stiklestad in 1030: Stiklestad.no Below are some photos from the show.

When we traveled home the next day, we spent the night at Koppangtunet Hotel. Here we see it from the main road. There are many fine old buildings here that are well taken care of.

This is Barfrøstua from about year 1600.

Kaffekvernstua to the right.

A house with loft.

Østerdalsstue.

Dance space and outdoor stage for concerts and events.